Bonjour, Monsieur Gauguin. Gauguin's version, painted several months later, bears little overt resemblance to the original. In Courbet's version, the artist depicted himself in the guise of a wandering Jew who meets his patron Bruyas, accompanied by his manservant on the road to Montpellier. Bruyas doffs his hat to the artist,...

Bonjour Monsieur Gauguin. It is rather fitting that Paul Gauguin's works circulate around the world, their movements bringing a degree of continuity to the artist's own restless movement and globe-trotting tendencies. From the age of eighteen months until his death in 1903, Gauguin moved or traveled between Peru, Martinique,...
